

Act for a cause

Theatre has been an integral part of society in the form of street play, role playing or drama. Plays also help students express and explore their creative side.

Keeping this in view, Aditya Birla World Academy organised its first interhouse street play competition for students. Street play is a very effective tool to spread the message of social relevance. The actors soliloquized in the language of the common man with minimal props and costumes. The topics chosen by different houses were child labour, education, conservation of marine life and environment. The children communicated various aspects of the issues with zeal. The plays depicted a plethora of burning issues. The competition drew power-packed performances from the young actors. Dramatics - like sports, dance and music - has been added to the academy's co-curricular activity chart. The participants' intense dialogue delivery and suitable lyric composition created magic. The children were brilliant in transferring socially relevant messages to the audience. These students proved that dramatics is not only about dialogues, but having a right script, correct portrayal of characters and dynamic acting skills.

Street play creates environmental awareness